March 6, 2020 - Full-arch Edentulous Implant Treatment

Course overview - The treatment of complete and single-arch edentulism is a significant priority for dental clinicians and patients in need. Many edentulous patients desire a fixed treatment option and have had poor experiences with traditional removable treatments. The concept of immediate implant placement and temporization is attractive to patients due to shorter treatment times and a more predictable outcome. Additionally, there are many patients with failing or "terminal" dentition who are aware of a full-arch implant procedure and are actively pursuing this treatment. This course will review patient communication with associated fee presentation and emphasize full-arch treatment as a proposed solution. We welcome clinicians who wish to expand their diagnostic abilities and learn more about collaborative treatment recommendations for implant-supported prosthetic solutions.

Food and beverages will be served.
